

Southwest Counties Should Unite on Tourist Program

Southwest Arkansas towns are holding a banquet in Hope this Thursday night to discuss plans for the reactivation of the former military airport here.

This is tonight's specific aim, but could well become the beginning of a regional planning program such as those which have been effective for years in well-developed tourist states. Let me illustrate this line of thought —

Last Tuesday Governor Francis Cherry vetoed an appropriation bill calling for the expenditure of $15,000 to restore the Civil war state capitol and other historical markers in and around our old county-seat town of Washington. It goes without saying that The Star endorses the principle exemplified in that bill. Back in 1936 we drew praise from librarians and historians all over the nation for our Arkansas Centennial Edition, which featured the town of Washington and on which the newspaper spent $1,700 in prewar money for editorial research alone.

Nevertheless the $15,000 state appropriation for Washington was killed, and I am suggesting here and now that the next time we try this we make it a regional rather than a one-town or one-county venture. An example of the regional program that comes to mind is the Shenandoah valley development in Virginia. Many of our readers have driven up U. S. 11 from Roanoke to Newmarket and know what I am going to write.

In the Shenandoah there are hundreds of historical markers and each town has something noteworthy to catch the tourist's eye. But the program has been built on an entire highway route — not a town or a county.

It is this pattern we should follow in Arkansas, and particularly right here in southwest Arkansas. We have many options in arranging a series of tourist trails. Southwest of us are Camden with its navigable Ouachita river and El Dorado with its great oil fields.

And north of us is a magnificent paved scenic highway through Washington, Nashville, and Murfreesboro, leading to Narrows lake, the mountains of the forest reserve around Camp Albert Pike, Glenwood, and finally into the back door of Hot Springs. And all of this is tied into a transcontinental highway which carries hundreds of thousands of tourists through Hope and Texarkana.

Set up a tourist "package" like this and I believe the state will buy it — with Washington's restoration appropriation included — because the record is in every other state that tourist "packages" pay off. They bring money into our state. And any time tax-spend money produces an actual profit it's a good thing.

This is something, for tonight's banquet meeting to think over — a tourist-trail development for all the southwestern counties to be developed through the years.

Million Dollar Fire Hits Plant at Texarkana

TEXARKANA, Tex. (UP) — An explosion in the oil room of the International Crocoting and Construction Co. set off one of the biggest fires in Texarkana's history today and caused damage estimated at about $1,000,000.

None was reported killed or injured. The crew that was in the room earlier was in a washroom when the explosion happened.

The plant is one of the largest in the world for crocoting of railroad ties. It crocotes 40 carloads of ties a day and covers 300 acres. There are 27 miles of railroad track in the plant grounds.

Only the oil room, where the ties are dipped, was destroyed. If the fire had gotten into five huge tanks of crocote the whole works might have burned, but none of the tanks exploded.

At last report, the remains of the oil room were still burning fiercely, sending off towers of greasy, black smoke. A spokesman for the company said damage would be close to $1,000,000 but won't exceed $1,000,000.

There was no immediate explanation of what caused the explosion.

America Is Divided Into Two Classes — Those Who Diet and Those Who Laugh at Them

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — America today is divided into two great classes — those who diet and those who laugh at them.

Dieting began as a fad, now is one of the nation's greatest industries. It spread faster than television, but doesn't have as many good sustaining programs.

The people who used to laugh at Bernard MacFadden as a health fanatic because he carried carrots in his pockets now try to find out where he buys them. The empty stomach has replaced the full dinner pail as an American success symbol. But, of course, it has to be fashionably empty.

A hungry man used to be a financial failure. Today a man of wealth who gets fat is regarded as an anti-social wreck who is deliberately plotting to make his wife a widow.

This is odd, because for centuries in China, India, and other

Kiwanis President Syvelle Burke is shown presenting a deed for a full city block to Mayor John L. Wilson. The block is known as the Middlebrook property and adjoins Fair Park.

In keeping with its policy of doing things for the youth of Hope the Kiwanians purchased the block this week and donated it to the city with the stipulation that it be used in youth activities. Supervising the activities will be the newly created Parks and Recreation Committee.

Back row: Joe Hutson, Eddie Whitman, Dewey Baber, Corbin Foster, Harold Hall, Lawrence Martin, Elmer Brown, Norman Moore, Teddy Jones and Will Munn.

The men in the derbys and carrying canes are advertising the annual Kiwanis Minstrel, the proceeds of which are used in youth work.

McCarthy to Continue to Make Deals

By WARREN DUFFEE
WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's new "agreement" with the State Department will not block his plans to accept a non-Communist trade promise from Greek shipowners in London, it was learned today.

Informed sources said McCarthy's permanent investigating subcommittee expects to get word in the next few days that the shippers have agreed to drop any trade with Iron Curtain countries.

But in line with a pledge McCarthy gave Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, these sources said the agreement would be reported to the State Department before it is made public.

McCarthy's "surprise" announcement Saturday that the subcommittee had independently obtained a similar agreement from Greek shipowners in New York drew fire from Mutual Security Director Harold E. Stassen and led to a peace conference with Dulles yesterday.

Hope Native Opens Grocery Store Here

Barry Brown and Claud Sutton have purchased the John Barrow Grocery at 111 S. Main Street in downtown Hope and announced the name of the store had been changed to Barry's Grocery and Market.

Mr. Brown will assume full management of the store which will carry a complete line of brand name groceries, fresh vegetables and meats.

A native of Hempstead, Mr. Brown has had more than five years experience in the grocery business. He invites his friends to visit him at his new location.

Confidence Game Pulled in Hope

The old Pidgeon dropping game was pulled again here yesterday and police are seeking a Negro man and woman who "fleece" Mary Stewart of Ozan, Rt. 1, out of $123.

It works this way: A crook approaches the victim with a scheme to pool their money on some sure-fire deal. They give the money to the second crook, a supposedly disinterested party, who takes it and disappears. The crooks later meet and split the take.

And the victim finally decides to go to the police.

Ike Names Banker to Head RFC

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today nominated Kenton R. Cravens, St. Louis banker, to be administrator of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Cravens would succeed Harry A. McDonald as head of the big government lending agency. McDonald's resignation was accepted yesterday.

The appointment apparently will be a short-term one since congressional leaders have reported the administration plans either to let the RFC die on June 30, 1954, or perhaps abolish it earlier.

Cravens, a 48-year-old native of Salina, Kan., has been in credit work during his entire business career.

Ched Hall, 58 Succumbs to Long Illness

John Cheddesler Hall, aged 58, Hope businessman, died early today in a local hospital. He had been in ill health since 1940 and critical the past two years.

A native of Lamar, near Clarksville, Mr. Hall came to Hope with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hall, about 50 years ago and lived here since. He was assistant cashier of Citizens National Bank for 20 years and at the time of his death was secretary of the Hope Federal Savings and Loan Assn., and of the Greening Insurance Agency. In this capacity he had served 15 years.

He was an Elder of the First Presbyterian Church, a veteran of World War I, member of the American Legion, former president of the Kiwanis Club, an ex-director of the Chamber of Commerce and served as a city councilman eight years and a former school board member.

He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. John L. Stewart of Hawthorne, Nevada; four sisters, Mrs. Mack Stuart, Mrs. Perry Moore of Hope, Mrs. Louis Bandy of DeQueen and Edna Earl Hall of Dallas; two brothers, Eugene of Russellville and Hugh Hall of Hope.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Friday at the First Presbyterian Church by Dr. L. T. Lawrence. Burial will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Active pallbearers: Mack Stuart, Perry Moore, Louis Bandy, Frank J. Hill, Duffie D. Booth and Fred O. Ellis. Honorary includes Presbyterian Church Board of Deacons and Elders and directors of Greening Ins. Agency and Hope Federal Loan and Savings Assn., and J. R. Williams of Sheridan.

Labor Disputes Idle 35,000 Rubber Workers

By The Associated Press
Some 35,000 CIO union workers went on strike today in 18 out of 19 U. S. Rubber Co. plants across the country, bringing to around 100,000 the number of idle because of labor disputes.

It was the third major strike against companies producing vital military material for military purposes. Earlier worker stoppages hit steel and jet engine production.

The U. S. Rubber dispute involved all but the Chicopee, Mass., plant, where around 3,000 union employees were reported "working as usual" despite last night's strike call.

Nearly 50,000 workers have been made idle in steel and steel-related industries owned by U. S. Steel Corp. in Pennsylvania. The unemployment resulted from a strike started Monday by 1,500 Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen on a connecting line serving the company's district plants near Pittsburgh.

The CIO union employees of the U. S. Rubber plants started walking off their jobs after the midnight deadline in contract negotiations. Pickets appeared at the plants shortly after the strike deadline passed.

A rubber company spokesman said no wage issue is involved in the dispute. He said issues included hospitalization, pension plan revision and the length of the new contract.

Behind Lines Landing Now Gets Okay

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON (UP) — An amphibious attack behind Communist lines in Korea similar to that which Gen. James A. Van Fleet was forbidden to undertake in 1951 now has the qualified okay of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

It is one of several war plans recently drafted by the joint chiefs without specific recommendation and for political, policy-making consideration. Favorable and unfavorable factors were set out for each plan. Very heavy casualties apparently would weigh against an amphibious "operation leapfrog" undertaken as part of a campaign to drive Communist forces out of Korea and beyond the Yalu River.

The joint chiefs' most recent compilation of alternate strategies was part of a continuing study. There is no reason to believe either the Truman or Eisenhower administrations ever asked the chiefs specifically for a plan to end the war by military force as quickly as possible.

Van Fleet testified yesterday that his 1951 plan would have won the war but was rejected by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, then supreme commander in Tokyo. Van Fleet did not know whether Ridgway acted on orders from Washington.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur also believed he had a plan to end the war quickly. He did, instead, to his relief and recall by President Truman. The new Russian peace offensive definitely is turning the tide of war again toward a negotiated truce. But the U. N. allies have their fingers crossed against some conceived gimmick by which the Communists may seek merely to divide the allies or otherwise to advance the Russian cause at the expense of the west.

If a truce comes, the joint chiefs' latest war plans will be filed and forgotten. If not, they may become the basis for a new approach to Communist aggression. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs, indicated in a recent speech the great spread of alternate strategy with which the military brass con-

L. R. Mother Admits Killing Her Child

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Prosecutor Tim Downie said a 20-year-old mother tearfully told officers today that she killed her 5-month-old baby in the floor of her apartment in a fit of rage.

The child died some two hours later last Friday in a hospital here of a fractured skull, said Downie.

He said the woman, Mrs. William Wells, at first denied she had anything to do with the baby's death. Today, on route to State Police Headquarters here to take a lie detector test, she confessed, Downie said.

Downie said the baby was buried Saturday. The body was exhumed yesterday for an autopsy after the couple had been arrested.

State Medical Examiner Dr. Anderson Nottingham said the baby's skull was fractured on the right side of its head from front to back.

Downie said an attending physician first reported the case following the baby's death Friday night to Deputy Coroner Gordon Holt.

Holt notified Captain V. B. Thompson of the Pulaski County homicide squad and the officer arrested the couple at their garage apartment here yesterday afternoon. Both denied they had caused the baby's death said Downie.

Wounded Men Also to Be Exchanged

By RUTHERFORD POATS
TOKYO (UP) — United Nations negotiators agreed today to formally submit a proposal to open talks to Panmunjom Monday on the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners of war.

The Communists submitted their proposal in a note handed to United Nations officers at the village. The note was addressed to Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. Far East commander.

At the same time, the Reds also formally submitted the Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai's apparent concession on repatriating prisoners of war, which would clear the way for reopening of cross-armistice talks.

A U. N. spokesman said after the meeting that the U. N. negotiators' team will go to Panmunjom Monday to meet with Communist delegates. However, he did not make it clear whether the U. N. has notified the Communists.

As for Chou's offer, it will be up to Clark to decide whether it is a "constructive" proposal which the Allies have demanded if the peace talks are to resume.

At any rate, the U. N. commander said earlier this week that

Russia May Be Trying to Stall Unity

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Russian snowballing peace offensive plus evidence today that the Kremlin has reversed its cold war tactics in a bold plan to stall the West's defense buildup and curb the anti-Soviet world unity.

They see the situation creating a critical problem of leadership for the Eisenhower administration, which must be ready to join in negotiating settlements with Moscow while maintaining the military power that enables it to negotiate from strength.

At the same time, some authorities suggest the situation is an opportunity for the American and Allied governments to create a stability which the Soviets may not have to accept. Any view is based on the heavyweight of the Kremlin's peace offensive, minimum of a major step toward a substantial time, it may be able to get moving again.

If he finds that he has exceeded his calorie quota, he starts worrying — and up zooms his high blood pressure. Is that good?

It used to be said that it was easier for a camel to go through the eye of the needle than for a rich man to enter the gates of heaven. Many a diet-lean rich man now dreams fondly of galloping through that needle on horseback.

A Wall Street broker looks like a piece of upright spaghetti as he sears his ticker tape. The working man is going in just as much for calorie-nibbling. He no longer carries a toothpick. He is one.

The biggest danger to a healthy, normal, happy, relaxed, cheerful, easy-going fat man now is that he will laugh himself to death at the ex-tubules trying to live to be 100 on lettuce leaves and vitamin pills. A rabbit eats lettuce. Ever meet one with a long beard?

One fat friend of mine has an unusual theory about the dieting craze.

"It's all just a housewives' conspiracy to get out of kitchen chores," he said. "They aren't trying to make their husbands live longer. They're just trying to cut down on the time they spend cooking."

"They used to have to spend at least four hours a day in their kitchen. Now all a wife has to do to fix a meal is to mix up a few vegetables for a raw salad and hold a lamb chop for a few seconds over a lighted match. Then dinner's ready."

"I say any husband who lets his wife starve him to death that way ought to have a saccharine tablet over his grave instead of a monument."

and campus activities at the college owned by the PEO Sisterhood were shown by Mrs. Horton.

The girls were then invited to the cafeteria where iced drinks, cheese snacks, and cookies were served from a table covered with a linen drawn work cloth centered with an arrangement of yellow iris flanked by yellow candles. Labor Union to Ask for TV Channel

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—The Little Rock Central Trades and Labor Council, AFL, will ask the Federal Communications Commission for a permit to use television channel 2 for educational purposes.

The Council membership voted approval of the plan last night. A spokesman said the union will ask the call letters KAPL, so the station "will serve as a constant beacon of our organization."

The Arkansas Union would become the first labor organization to seek a TV outlet.

Articles of incorporation are to be filed as the "Greater Little Rock Council Television Association." An estimated $250,000 initial building and operating fund would be raised by non-interest promissory notes given to Arkansas AFL Unions and "other interested groups."

Ted Brewer, chairman of the Television Committee, outlined the program for obtaining the station.

He said the Union wants the outlet, primarily, to hold an educational station open for the Little Rock area. He said the Council would turn it over to any interested educational institution, upon payment of the Union's

ALL SQUARED AWAY—Movie star Arlene Dahl has a new title—"Queen of Figures." The title was conferred upon her at a Los Angeles meeting of the National Association of Accounting Engineers when they surveyed her in the gossamer finery she wears in her latest film, "Desert Legion." The mathematical wizards computed that of Arlene's 3680 square inches there are 1040 square inches of pink flesh exposed to view and an additional 1100 square inches discernible through her princess' warabe.

DOROTHY DIX

Heartless Man

Dear Miss Dix: My first husband was killed in service, and after five years of widowhood I remarried. That was seven years ago and my girls were small. Both are in high school now. In the beginning, my husband was a fine father, but he has changed. He doesn't like the children; they have no love or respect for him, and he helps over every cent he spends on them. I had a bank account when I married him, but that is gone now. I truly love him, even now, but my children will always come first. He wants me to send them away, but that I'll never do.

HILDA ANN

Devotion To Children
Answer: You say the children come first with you, but every sentence in your letter belies the fact. Several times you repeated the statement, "I love the guy and can't live without him!" No matter how much he displays his open dislike of your youngsters, you persist in your devotion to him. Obviously, therefore, you intend continuing to enter to him. That's been your fault from the beginning. You turned over your money to him, have handed him the small income you receive, completely ignoring the fact that it actually is for the support of the girls, and not the entertainment of their stepfather. If this be devotion to your children, heaven deliver the youngsters from your maternal solicitude. What you should do is clear enough; but it is equally clear that you have no intention of doing it.

Investment.
Applications for non-commercial TV channels must be filed by June 2, or they will be released as regular commercial stations.

Brewer said a board of directors would be appointed, composed of education, management, religion and labor representatives. It would be an unpaid body which would screen all programs aired by the station.

Gov. Cherry, the State Department of Labor, the University of Arkansas, and various other educational groups will be asked to endorse the plan.

Dear Miss Dix: At 53 my husband still thinks he's a Romeo. We have been married 30 years, have four children and five grandchildren. His job involves a good deal of traveling, and on the last trip he came home and announced that he'd like a divorce since he had fallen in love with someone else. I refused, and he said all he would have to do is wait seven years and the divorce would be automatic. Is this true?

Answer: Your husband's knowledge of divorce laws is about as confused as his conception of marital love and fidelity. You are quite right to refuse his plea for a divorce; he'll recover from the infatuation in due time and will return home, a wiser man.

Dear Miss Dix: My boy friend has asked me to go steady, but I know my mother won't approve. I'm 17 and he's 19.

PATSY
Answer: Your mother probably believes that now, as in the past, "going steady" is tantamount to an engagement. Since two dates constitute steady dating today, practically every teenager is in the process of going steady. It's an unwise procedure, but apparently it is firmly entrenched until a new dating system develops. However, don't keep the fact a secret from Mom under any circumstances. Talk the matter over with her. A frank presentation of both sides of the problem will clear matters for both of you.

Dear Miss Dix: I am friends with two young men, Ned and Charles, who share an apartment. I am especially fond of Ned, but Charles is the one who likes me particularly, with the result that he does everything he can to turn Ned against me. They are always together, and Charles seems to be the dominant personality of the two. Should I speak to either one about the situation?

WORRIED
Answer: I think you are wasting your time and attention on both the boys. Even if you could convince Ned that Charles was telling untruths about you (a fact, by the way that you can't possibly be

Memphis Police Seek Sidewalk Bandit

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Police swarmed through a mid-town residential section last night after a woman was slugging of Miss Mary McKnight.

The attack occurred only five blocks from the scene of the fatal shooting of Miss Mary McKnight of Helena, Ark. whose death set off this city's biggest manhunt.

Mrs. Thelma Washburn, 29, told officers she was walking toward a friend's house when she was struck down. Her purse, which contained about $3, was snatched.

Mrs. Washburn, bloody from a gashed face, staggered to a nearby house when she recovered consciousness. She was taken to a hospital for treatment of head injuries.

The McKnight case — three months old — still is unsolved despite a $12,000 reward for information leading to conviction of the killer.

sure of, you would probably never completely wean him away from Charles' domination. Any triangle involving a deep friendship, such as theirs, produces complications that are better avoided. Find a boy who is not so easily influenced.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a high-school sophomore, with a speech defect. As a consequence, I do not have much social life, and I think even my family is ashamed of me. The trouble is stammering.

S. S.
Answer: It's a shame that you have gone so long without treatment or correction of your trouble. Stammering can be corrected and often completely overcome, with the proper teaching. Consult a speech clinic in your vicinity, and if you can't find one in your telephone book, contact either personally or by mail, the nearest eye, ear, and throat hospital.

Parents of Prisoners Are Hopeful

By HAROLD HART

LITTLE ROCK — Hopeful skepticism is the feeling among Arkansas relatives of prisoners of war as Communist China makes another move which might end the fighting in Korea.

The Communists have offered to return those wounded prisoners who "insisted" on repatriation. And, after a Korean cease fire, the remaining POWs would be turned over to an unnamed neutral country until their fate was decided.

The prisoner of war issue has stralemated for many months possible settlement of the 35-month-old Korean war.

Allied with general misgivings, is the report that the Communists have been forcing prisoners to paint rosy pictures of life in prison camps in their letters home.

The Pentagon said the Reds used such tactics in an attempt to win acceptance of "Communist terms" for an armistice in Korea.

One so concerned over recent developments is Mrs. S. L. Stone of Pine Bluff, mother of 1st Lt. James L. Stone.

"We have had three letters from Jim since 1951. He says 'don't worry about me. My health is okay'."

Without specifically mentioning food, Lt. Stone wrote that "conditions here are good."

Mrs. Stone was asked if any of her son's letters indicated that he was being forced to include propaganda.

"There was no such indication," she said "but you can read between the lines and understand that he isn't completely writing what he wants to."

How about this latest Communist "peace feeler"?

"Mr. Stone and I were talking about that one night. We hope and pray that this is the real thing, and I'll have to see it signed, sealed and delivered before I believe it."

Equally apprehensive is H. B. Thompson of Horatio, brother of Pvt. James T. Thompson. On July 6, Pvt. Thompson will have been a prisoner for three years.

"We've had our hopes up several times," says H. B. Thompson. "We just don't know. It's pretty hard on my mother. She keeps up with everything in the paper and keeps hoping that James will come home."

The Thompsons have received several letters, all "cheerful." He writes that "We are getting to play ball and have holidays off," says H. B. Thompson. The Horatio soldier also mentioned in one letter that Korean guards in the prison camps "were rough" but added, "We are under Chinese volunteers now and they are much better."

"They might have had him write that for all I know," says the brother.

The father of Cpl. Wayman E. Simpson of Mena says "I haven't heard from my boy in seven

Senators to Take Up Bill on Tidelands

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The Senate continues debate today on a bill to establish the coastal states' title to oil-rich submerged lands off their shores—title which Sen. Gordon (R-Ore.) said they should have as a matter of "right and equity."

Advocates of federal ownership of the offshore resources called it "give away" legislation. They noted that the Supreme Court has ruled in the cases of three states that all lands beyond low water mark fall within the dominion of the federal government.

Senate debate began yesterday shortly after the House passed for the third time 285-108, a bill to give the states the offshore property within their boundaries, usually three miles from low water mark but 10½ miles in the case of Texas and the Gulf Coast of Florida.

The lands in question, often mistakenly called tidelands, contain oil estimated to be worth 40 billion dollars or more.

Ser. Gordon, managing the legislation for the interior committee, retained the floor at the start of today's session to continue his explanation of the bill drafted by the committee.

After today's session, the Senate will take a customary recess over the Easter week end. Republican Leader Taft of Ohio called for daily Senate sessions next week to speed final action on the submerged lands question. The Senate has been meeting only three days a week.

Passage of the bill is regarded as certain, and President Eisenhower had indicated he will sign such legislation.

Soviet Mission Leaves Japan

They had been living at the old Russian Embassy Building, which flies the Red flag but which is not recognized by the Japanese government. Kyodo news agency said all firmly refused to answer questions at the pier.

The group were members of the wartime Soviet mission to the Allied Council for Japan, which went out of existence when the Japanese Peace Treaty took effect almost a year ago. Soviet Russia did not sign and does not recognize the treaty. It legally is still at war with Japan.

Sugar was first made commercially from sugar beets about 1800 when France found sugar difficult to import during the Napoleonic wars.

months." Collie E. Simpson adds that: "We've had seven or eight — maybe 10 letters — from him and all he says is 'I'm all right. I'm getting enough to eat. It's not what I'm used to, but I'll stick it out'."

His letters, says the elder Simpson, "read like they might have been dictated to him. He always tells us not to worry."

The father says Cpl. Wayman never describes life in the prison camp. "He was a regular baseball fan, loved to play it. If he was being allowed to play baseball and have other recreation he surely would have mentioned it."

The letters always were very short and were written on cheap paper.

Ben Edwards of Hunter, father of Pvt. Franklin D. Edwards, adopts this viewpoint:

"I would do anything — just anything — to settle things over there."

Pvt. Edwards, who was taken prisoner Feb. 14, 1951, has written several letters his father says. They all say he is "treated nice," but "He is like the rest of them (Americans) over there — he has to lie."

"Naturally, we can't believe anything they (Communists) say."

The elder Edwards says there has been no specific mention in his son's letters of how conditions are in the camp or type and amount of food he is receiving. Edwards, like Simpson, believes somebody "is dictating" what appears in the letters.

Mrs. Oren Haney, sister-in-law of Sgt. Oliver W. Haney, says the last letter from the Mammoth Spring soldier was received July 9, 1952.

"The letters sound natural, but you never know," she said. "He says, though that he was treated fine."

"We just can't tell about things. Our hopes have been built up so often that it will be settled. It can't be too soon."

That was the reaction of Mrs. Walter O. Taylor of near Little Rock, mother of Pfc. Willis O. Taylor. She added:

"In the three letters we have received since he was taken prisoner May 19, 1951, he says he has been treated well, getting plenty of food, seeing movies and getting medical attention when they need it."

However, Mrs. Taylor went on, he always says "doing okay under the conditions." "It seems like there was something he always wanted to say but couldn't."

In December, the Pentagon released the names of some 3,100 American prisoners of war. Of those, 74 were from Arkansas. The Associated Press today has sampled to reach relatives of 22 Arkansas POWs. At least 20 had

Bathers Still Undecided on Negro Players

HOPE SPRINGS, Ark.—Acting President Lewis Goltz of the Hot Springs Bathing Club declined today whether the club would stand by or back down from its plan to use two Negro pitchers in the class C Cotton States League this season.

"The club's Board of Directors will meet tonight, and Goltz said the situation would be discussed thoroughly."

There have been no definite plans that, unless Hot Springs drops the Negro players, the league may withhold approval of the bathers' new owners, including Goltz.

The league will meet at Greenville, Miss., next Monday to act on the club's change of ownership.

Meanwhile, Jim and Leander Tugerson, first Negroes ever signed by a Cotton States League team, were in spring training along with 14 other bathers here.

Training began yesterday.

The Tugersons compiled outstanding records with the Indianapolis Clowns of the Negro American League last year.

The CSE includes teams from Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

Miralampal Atty. Gen. J. P. Coleman said at Jackson yesterday he believed mixed white-Negro athletic contests would violate public policy in his state. Coleman said public policy, like common law, could be enforced in courts through injunctive rulings.

Though not common, mixed white-Negro athletics would not be new in Arkansas. Negroes have performed along with white players in the annual professional football exhibitions at Little Rock.

And, in 1951, Santa Clara used a Negro pitcher against the University of Arkansas at Little Rock.

Travelers Are Red Hot for Now

By The Associated Press.

Manager Luke Appling ordered another session of batting practice for his victory-starved Memphis Chickadees today in an effort to whip up more punch in his Dixie Series champions.

Appling was far from pleased with the fifth performance against Tulsa last night. The Chickadees bowed out of their sixth straight defeat.

Luke picked Right-handed Ed Wright and Southpaw Larry Richardson to work tonight in the second of a 3-game spring series with the Texas League club.

Other Southern Association contenders:

Birmingham beat Montgomery, 7-5. Little Rock edged Buffalo, 2-1. New Orleans tripped Port Arthur, 2-1. Chattanooga blasted Savannah, 13-0. Atlanta bowed to the St. Louis Cardinals, 12-4.

Mobile was blitzed by St. Paul, 11-2.

The Lookouts got back to Chattanooga today with a 6-7 spring record. They lost six of the first seven, then won five of the last six. Roy Haves and Tony Rolfe for the second day in a row, hampered homers for the Lookouts.

A 10th inning home run by Third Baseman Roy Lefevore gave New Orleans its victory. Lefevore also drove in the other Pin, run with a single in the fourth.

Tony Kirk slugged a homer with two runners on base to help the Barons to their victory. The Sally League team out-hit Birmingham, 13-0.

Manager Eddie Stanky has claimed all along that his club's early spring record didn't mean a thing because they were experimenting. He insisted the training camp was the place to find out what his new men could do and that a victory in March wasn't worth a dime in a September pennant drive. Stanky is sure to have liked what he saw in Atlanta.

The quality in other exhibitions across the country yesterday varied from very good — in Clearwater, Fla., and Mobile, Ala. — to far from it in Denver.

Clearwater, Richie Ashburn homered in the first inning and Smokey Burgess did the same in the 10th to give the Philadelphia Phils a 21 extra-inning victory over the New York Yankees.

At Mobile, in another 11-inning contest, the Brooklyn Dodgers edged the Milwaukee Braves 3-2.

Birmingham, 13-0, beat Kirk's big one made the difference.

Mobile First Baseman Ken Lammert smacked one 300 feet and out of the park at Vera Beach, Fla.

Atlanta and St. Louis each got a pair of homers. Howie Polas and Jack Caro were the Cracker power men, and Ray Jablonski and Jack Colum did the honors for the Cards.

Little Rock won on a single by Ralph Atkins and successive doubles by Chick King and Louis Schaufele. Four-hit pitching by Bill Furlong and Ted Edmunds made the task easier.

Nashville left spring camp with a flurry of player exchanges. The Vols picked up three additional players optioned by Minneapolis and the New York Giants.

Outfielder Bob Lemon and infielder Tom Konoewski came down from the AAA club and Pitches. Ronny Mahrt was the Giants' Southern Vol pitcher. Allan Northrup was sold to the Giants. The Vols' Belver Jack Hassman was optioned to the Cardinals.

Do Quail Lose Their Scent? By WARREN PAGE Shooting Editor.

"Brother, this is tough going! Where the dickens do you figure those birds have gone?"

"Hanged if I know. Last Saturday the Jedge and I found eight quails in the forenoon, and it was a lot drier underfoot than it is right now. They must have taken plumb out of the country."

But those birds hadn't moved clear off the plantation. Quail do not travel as pheasants sometimes do. A convey of birds will generally hang out in the same field near the same briar corner for weeks or even seasons at a time, until broken up by shooting or by predators, or until the fields have been replanted in some crop that offers quail no feed.

We know where several convey, ought to be but we couldn't find a bird to save us. There wasn't a square foot of that whole plantation along North Carolina's Yadkin River bottom that wasn't familiar to at least one member of the party, and our good pointing dog was baffled. The birds had just plumb disappeared.

This wasn't a case of poor scenting conditions. Two nights before there had been a steady rain, soaking covers and ground and leaving for the dogs just the right amount of dampness. Yet for one whole day we had not located a single quail in an area normally productive of limits if a man shot even reasonably well.

But this Yadkin River situation was a real toughie. Even the tenant farmer who had come with us to point out sure-fire convey corners had to shift his chew from one side to the other and allow as how he was plumb stumped.

The situation wasn't exactly new to me, because I've bumped into it in chasing quail in the Southwest, where the top-knotted spriglets have to range over a lot of country to find adequate feed. But I'd never seen fine dogs draw such a complete blank, under good scenting conditions, in country that was familiar to both dogs and men.

Not until the second day did we locate a convey, and then a young dog, either out of frustration at finding no birds earlier, or just plain excited, busted that one up out of gunshot. Either the birds on that North Carolina plantation had taken themselves a trip down into South Carolina, or somehow they had temporarily lost the ripe scent that to every dog nose spells quail, and to every gunner a chance at flying buzzing bombs.

Could they have been chewing some of that chlorophyll stuff, you suppose? (Distributed by NEA Service)

Cardinals Seem to Be Improving

By BEN PHLEGAN AP Sportswriter.

Now that they've shaken the Florida sand from their shoes, the St. Louis Cardinals are setting about to prove that they aren't as bad as their spring record indicates.

With a feast of minor league pitching ahead of them the Red Birds should be able to pull into their Sportsman's Park home with a better than .500 average even though they won only 8 of 22 in Florida.

Yesterday, in their first outing since leaving St. Petersburg, the Cards pounded out a 12-4 decision out Atlanta of the Southern Association. They will continue to meet Southern Association and Texas League teams until they face the Browns in the St. Louis elite series starting a week from Saturday.

The important thing to the Cardinals about yesterday's triumph was the way their rookie came through. Third Baseman Ray Jablonski laced a triple and a home run, Steve Biko, who can have the first base job for keeps if he can hit, drove in four runs with a triple and two singles. Outfielder Rip Repulski tripled and little Jackie Colum hurled three scoreless innings and hit a home run.

Manager Eddie Stanky has claimed all along that his club's early spring record didn't mean a thing because they were experimenting. Baseball Season Planned in Meeting Here

The stamp of approval was put on the Legion's projected baseball program at last night's meeting of Leslie Huddleston Post with the membership voting unanimously to enter the Hope Legionnaires in the Southwest Arkansas Baseball League.

Joe Jones, a former Post Commander and currently member of the City Council and prominent civic leader, was selected as Business Manager of the 1953 Legionnaires. Jones was given the green light to immediately proceed with selection of a playing manager and lining up of a prospective team roster.

Exact composition of the Southwest loop this year will be determined at a meeting to be held on the night of April 6 in Hope of representatives from Southwest Arkansas League teams with Jack Clemens of Magnolia, league president. The most persistent rumor in this section of the state would indicate that plans are underway to make the Southwest League a four team affair with entries from Hope, Nashville, Mineral Springs and De Queen.

To assist Business Manager Jones in manning the overall baseball program a Post Athletic Committee was formed consisting of Ferrell Baker, chairman, James McLarty, chairman of the junior program, Tom Wardlaw, chairman of the sign advertising program, with the balance of the committee being composed of Fred Johnson, Dale Wilson, and Harry Hawthorne.

Preliminary plans call for a gala opening of the local season with the staging of a college baseball game between Southern State of Magnolia and Henderson State Teachers of Arkadelphia.

Post Commander Teddy Jones was authorized to immediately begin negotiations with Coaches Elmer Smith of Magnolia and Duke Wells of Henderson to see if such a game could be scheduled between the two rival colleges for around the middle or last of May.

Both college nines are sprinkled heavily with Hope talent and are expected to form a fine nucleus of the 1953 edition of the Legionnaires. It is felt that such a game would be a natural for this section of the state.

It was pointed out that only through the sale of the advertising and box seats for the season could sufficient funds be raised to begin the season's campaign. Treasurer Raymond Jones reported a balance on hand of $14.81 in the base-

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By GAYLE TALBOT

DENVER (U)—It did not require Leo Duracher's non-appearance at a banquet here to convince those close to the situation that the New York Giants are a seriously disturbed baseball club a fortnight before the National League season opens.

Their pitchers have not been pitching, their hitters have not been hitting, and they are blue and angry at the series of high score beatings that have been administered to them by the red-hot Cleveland Indians in their exhibition junket across the West. The times place is nearly as funeral as it was when Monte Irvin broke his ankle here a year ago today.

Just what has happened to the powerful looking team which won the big two seasons back and ran a strong second last year is difficult to analyze. Some of those who have been with the Giants all spring are convinced a reaction set in among the players several weeks ago when they finally realized their great center-fielding teammate, Willie Mays, was not to be released by the Army.

Most players are superstitious to some extent. The Giants knew they won in '51 with Willie out there, and that they didn't win last year after Uncle Sam grabbed the brilliant young Negro. They came to camp this spring thinking — or at least hoping strongly — that he would be back. The news that Willie's request for a discharge had been turned down drew long faces.

That, however, is purely in the abstract and could not account entirely for the miserable showing Duracher's athletes have been making for the past week and which caused him to bench practically his entire first string in yesterday's bout with the Indian.

Bobby Thomson, one of the team's best hitters, has been out of the line-up for two weeks with a strained bone in his right hand the result of having been struck by one of Mike Garcia's fast balls. The absence of such a star from the fat part of the batting order is bound to be felt, especially when a club is facing Cleveland's pitching staff day after day.

Monte Irvin, the clean-up hitter has recovered from the ankle break, but it limping from a sore instep incurred when he stepped on a clod in Phoenix. Let him rest it in the games here. When both Bobby and Monte return to the line-up it is possible the club's attack will perk up some and Duracher's blood pressure will subside. It had better happen soon.

The single bright spot is the continued fine play of Daryl Spencer, the big rookie infielder from Minneapolis. His glove work is spectacular and he's leading the team in runs batted in at this point. Tur guess now is he will start the campaign at short.

BUTTER

I do not want to get into a controversy between butter and oleomargarine. I eat butter I do not eat oleo. It is a matter of taste and therefore is beyond discussion. But butter has become an out-priced article of food. It is today 89 cents a pound; oleo, artificially dyed yellow to deceive the eye is 39 cents a pound. To many there is not a sufficient difference in taste and value to justify the difference in price.

At present prices, butter has practically disappeared from the sandwich. Either the bread is served dry or the concoction called mayonnaise is put on the bread. Mayonnaise has a distinctive flavor and is not sufficiently neutral for a sandwich. Personally, I prefer butter; you are entitled to your taste. Some use a confusion called "Russian dressing." It is mayonnaise mixed with ketchup or something else that is red. In Russia, they never heard of it. All this is, of course, a matter of taste; I would call it a coarsening of the taste buds.

Again, I notice how stingy restaurants, hotels, dining cars and other purveyors of food have become about butter. The spread used to be served profusely, particularly if one ordered such a dish as wheat cakes. Today the pats are small and carefully measured. At present prices, butter is priced out of the market. Those who still demand price supports may see the day when the only effective customer for butter will be the Government, purchasing with the taxpayer's money, a commodity that is not even being used for axle-grease—a phrase that is not in the vocabulary of the present generation.

The fact that the sales of butter and oleo are about equal in the United States should teach the farmer that whereas he can put political pressure on government to get price support for his product, with huge government purchases, he can out-price his product until he loses his normal market and becomes wholly dependent upon a political market.

For instance, in the United States, in 1934, the per capita consumption of butter was 18.2 pounds. Compare that figure with the present situation:

PER CAPITA

	Butter	Oleo
1950	10.6	6.0
1951	9.5	6.5
1952	8.8	7.8
1953 Estimate	8.6	8.3

The consumption of oleo means that the dairy farmer is stuck with butter fat. He cannot hope that the price of liquid milk will rise continuously to offset the loss of the butter market. Now comes the story from the Middle West that an ice cream has come on the market concocted of soy beans, dried milk and some other ingredients, that tastes like ice cream, looks like ice cream but is not ice cream. I am told that this new product is cheaper than ice cream and wherever introduced has found a satisfactory market.

Therefore, it is to be assumed that this will be another item to add to the woes of the American farmer.

Also, if the tariff policies of the Eisenhower Administration move in the direction of Henry Ford II's free trade concepts, we shall be importing increasing quantities of European cheese. I recently attended an excellent dinner at the Waldorf Astoria where a wide assortment of American made cheeses was served. I tasted perhaps half a dozen of these cheeses and found them of excellent flavor and texture and comparable to some of the better European cheeses.

A large cheese industry could develop in the United States, but American manufacturers of this product could never hope to compete with European lower cost without some protection. The American cheese would be out-priced.

This is one of the most important social problems in the United States. It is impossible for any country long to produce commodities for the sole purpose of destroying them, while paying the producer a subsidy. It demoralizes the producer as a human being, apart from placing upon the country the burden of waste. Such a policy, continued over generations, would reduce the American farmer to the condition of a peasant and nullify our philosophy of a classless society.

The farm problem requires a new approach.

Wilson Cracks Down on Lax 'Slip-Ups'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson has cracked down on security slip-ups he blames on inter-service rivalry and lax handling of secret documents.

The nation's security has been affected and "countries hostile to the U.S. have picked up vital intelligence," Wilson said, because of recent "leaks."

Two orders by Wilson, disclosed Wednesday by the Pentagon, call for:

1. "A higher degree of security for our official documents."

2. Closer checks on disclosures of technical military data through "inter-service rivalry in the weapons development field."

The directives, dated March 26, were addressed to the secretaries of the army, navy and air force, the joint chiefs of staff and other top level officials. Wilson said his instructions "specifically include key executives and military personnel" in Washington.

No particular instances of unauthorized disclosure of classified security information were cited. It was recalled, however, that rival services recently boasted of their separate development of futuristic looking space suits for high-flying airmen.

Atom-Powered Sub Already Underway

(Editor's Note: This is one of several stories by Elton C. Fay, Associated Press military affairs reporter, on one of the first visits by a newsmen to the cross-country chain of laboratories and plants building the atom-powered submarine.)

By ELTON C. FAY

PITTSBURGH (AP)—So swift is the pace that manufacture of the operating engine for the first atom-powered submarine already is under way.

Obviously assured by what it is learning from the prototype engine under test at Idaho Falls, Idaho, the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) has directed Westinghouse Electric Corp. to start work on the seagoing version which will be used.

This start on the assembly of the nuclear reactor and steam propulsion machinery does not necessarily mean the design of atomic submarine power plants has been "frozen."

It does mean AEC scientists and Navy designers believe they have an atomic power plant which will propel a submarine probably faster and certainly longer without refueling than any engine existing today.

No one expects this nuclear power plant to operate flawlessly the first time the Nautilus puts to sea. It is still highly experimental. It will have "bugs," as any newly designed machinery does. But until the engineering force first gets up steam in a dockside test, and the Nautilus makes her maiden voyage, the designers won't know all the fine changes in design detail that must be made.

The power plant for the Nautilus is built around a "thermal reactor," with a water coolant for transfer of the atomically produced heat to steam turbines.

Nuclear physicists call the devices "reactors," which in layman's language means furnaces.

The first reactors were, and still are, used for producing refined fissionable material, including plutonium, which goes into the manufacture of atomic bombs. The heat in those reactors is an unnecessary and undesirable by-product disposed of by elaborate water cooling system.

But now they want the heat to produce power to drive naval vessels and later industrial machinery. So the intense local heating of a reactor is being tapped.

Two types of reactors are to be used in two experiments to see which works best—the thermal reactor in which the speed or energy of neutrons released in the fission process is relatively low; an intermediate reactor in which neutrons are released at higher speed.

The relatively low neutron speed of the thermal reactor means that ordinary steel and other materials would absorb or capture too many of the neutrons.

To meet this situation, scientists of the AEC, the Bureau of Mines of the Westinghouse Corp. and of a number of other firms, turned to a metal little known or used until they demanded it in quantity—zirconium.

Zirconium looks, feels, weighs and generally appears to be much like high-grade steel. But it has the happy advantage of neutron absorption far lower than steel. It is used for key parts of the reactor's core.

When the AEC and Westinghouse started looking for quantities of zirconium it cost over $200 a pound and was obtainable usually in lots of only about five pounds. Production now is coming in at the rate of 200,000 pounds a year and the cost is down to about $15 a pound.

Lester D. Greiner, manager of the Pittsburgh AEC plant, sums up the program for building the atom-powered submarine this way:

"Nothing has come up that would make us feel the least bit pessimistic. We are solid right ahead."

4. A ground, air and naval offensive to bring U. N. lines northward to the waist of the Korean peninsula.

The outline said an all-out drive to the Yalu would require a greater mobilization of industry and manpower at home and exact heavy casualties in Korea. Bradley's speech and the joint chiefs war plans merely set out what the United States and United Nations could do without attempting to recommend what they should do.

A company spokesman said he was "very definitely optimistic" about early settlement, estimating the strike would last no longer than two or three days, if that long.

South Koreans Turn Back Chinese Raid

By ROBERT UDICK
REGULI, Korea (UPI) — South Korean infantrymen smashed back a Chinese battalion attack on the Central front today, killing or wounding 123 Communists in hand-to-hand fighting.

The Chinese force, mounting the biggest attack since the opening of the Communist "peace offensive," was driven northward by a ROK counterattack and U. N. artillery after a 40-minute battle.

The Chinese, about 800 strong, methodically advanced toward ROK positions after crossing the Kumsong-Kumsong road, which runs through no-man's-land.

Their attack was aimed at the cavalry regiment of the ROK Capital Division.

A total curtain of U. N. artillery and intense rifle and machine-gun fire slowed the Red drive at several points.

The South Koreans attacked a few moments later and drove the Chinese north of the road.

The ROK soldiers captured a quantity of Red equipment, including Bangalore torpedoes, TNT fuses, and hand grenades and ammunition.

Fifty-three Chinese were counted dead and 75 were estimated wounded in the attack.

Elsewhere on the battlefield, the Reds limited minor harassing attacks to ROK-held sectors. There were no Communist attacks against American or other U. N. units.

On the Western front, the scene last week of some of the bitterest battles in six months, the fighting virtually came to an end.

It has been the quietest night in two weeks, a corps officer said.

However, U. N. artillery continued to pound Communist fortifications and Red soldiers who ventured into no-man's-land.

Heavy cloud formations grounded all but token formations of U. N. fighter-bombers for the second straight day. Australian Meteor jets and U. S. Marine planes struck isolated raids in North Korea.

During the night, 12 American Superforts roared through a break in the weather front in a 120-ton attack against 400 buildings near Hamburg. One Superfort hit a freight yard in the East Coast port.

Light B-29 bombers bombed five roadblocks, destroying 20 Communist vehicles. One locomotive and four boxcars were destroyed near Sinchuan.

Contract Let for Pavement in Miller Co.

By LEON HATCH
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Highway Commission today opened bids on 10 road projects with apparent low bids totaling $3,600,702.

The bids were the first opened by the present Cherry-appointed Commission and the first since last October when the former Commission made its last letting.

Contracts on today's bids will not be awarded until later today.

Chief Highway Engineer Alf Johnson said that cost of the projects had been estimated around 3.5 million dollars.

He said that 10 per cent would have to be added to today's low bids to get a comparable actual cost figure.

This 10 per cent is added to all contracts as engineering costs. The addition would make the total today around 3.8 million dollars.

The projects and apparent low bids are:

Miller County — 8.06 miles of Portland cement concrete pavement and gravel shoulders on Highway 67 (FAP); T. L. James Co., Ruston, La. $444,978.

Bohlen Gets Last Minute Data

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower called Charles E. Bohlen to the White House for last minute instructions today as the new ambassador prepared to leave for his important cold war post in Moscow.

Mr. Bohlen was expected to outline his personal views on the new Soviet peace offensive and the general policy he expects Bohlen to follow in the Soviet capital.

There was no advance indication that Bohlen would carry a special presidential message to the Kremlin. But he is expected to express the government's intense interest in any sincere and honorable move to ease East-West tensions.

Bohlen's continued presence in the White House will be a signal to the Soviet Union that the United States is still interested in a peaceful settlement of the Korean and Chinese problems.

Hempstead Is Approved for Higher Loans

By HAROLD HART

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas farmers apparently will be forced to turn more and more to the government for production loans.

Private sources are said to be wary about putting out much money to farmers. This tightening of money apparently is the outgrowth of several things, including the uncertainty in the present cotton picture and past weather disasters.

The state Farmers Home Administration has suggested to Washington that the FHA's appraisal policy be re-evaluated to bring it in line with inflated farm values.

J. V. Highfill, state director of the FHA, says 10 counties have been approved for higher loan limits, ranging from $1,000 to $5,000. They are Pulaski, Howard, Lincoln, Cleveland, Little River, Sevier, Prairie, Miller, Lafayette, Marion, Hempstead, Saline, Monroe, Grant, Izard, Lonoke, Sharp, Jefferson and Baxter.

The soda jerker, dishwasher, waiter and others who work their way through college have been joined by another — the chicken raiser.

The part-time poultryman is Travis Henderson of the Fourche County community in Garland County. The 20-year-old Henderson drives back and forth daily to Henderson State Teachers College at Arkadelphia, but he still finds time to raise about 10,000 broilers.

The truck he drives was purchased from poultry earnings.

Garland County Agent Duval Polindexter says the youth started with 100 baby chicks in 1948. In his latest count, he had raised 90,000 broilers. He already has financed two years of college.

Arkansas cattlemen are getting fired up over the possibilities of slugs as insurance against lack of pasture.

W. H. Freyaldenhoven, agronomist with the Agricultural Extension Service, says a recent meeting one county 37 livestock producers said they are planning to preserve slugs for the first time.

The peak grazing season in Arkansas usually comes during April and May and early June. Much of the state's potential feed production is lost during those months as plant growth exceeds consumption and quality decreases as plants become larger and more fibrous, says Freyaldenhoven.

The agronomist adds that if cut at the right stage and put in a silo, any plant in the pasture which is eaten by livestock makes a quality product.

Acres of allotments often have been a headache for cotton farmers. The producers complain that in years past they have gone along with the government's request for decreased acreage and then the following year when acreage controls are effected, the government used the previous year as a base. This amounts to cutting down the amount of cotton the farmer can grow. And this becomes a major problem when cotton is about the only crop that the farmer can profit on.

T. M. Atkinson, an Extension Service economist, says increased cotton plantings in 1953 will not result in larger 1954 allotments for the vast majority of farms if acreage allotments are put into effect.

If the government controls acreage in 1954, Atkinson says, the base years will be 1947, 1949, 1950, 1951 and 1952.

SIDELIGHTS:

Fifty-seven head of purebred cattle will be sold at the 11th annual consignment sale of the Arkansas Guernsey Breeders' Association in Little Rock April 13.

Contractors Seek Alleged Damages

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Four Greater Little Rock contractors want $39,882 from two construction firms and the AFL Sheet Metal Workers Union because they allegedly conspired to make union labor unavailable to the contractors.

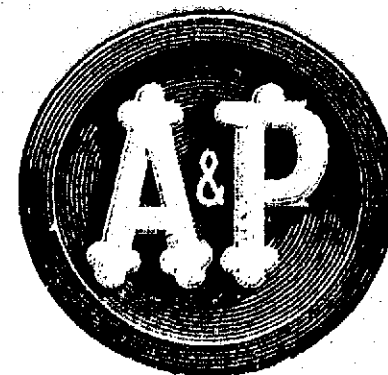

Suit was filed in Federal Court yesterday by Ketcher & Co., Arkansas Mechanical Contractors, Inc., E. W. Daniel Sheet Metal Co., and Edwards Sheet Metal Co.

The Union, E. P. Elmes, international representative of the Union; The Blaw Knox Construction Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., and King McCreery, doing business as McCreery Brothers & Co., Pittsburgh, were named as defendants.

Blaw-Knox is a contractor for construction work at the Pine Bluff Arsenal and McCreery is a subcontractor.

The suit charges that the defendants conspired between March, 1952, and March, 1953, to cause the Sheet Metal Workers Union to refuse to furnish qualified sheet metal workers for the Little Rock contractors.

Brothers of Penitentes in Conference

By JOHN CURTIS

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP) — In the little mountain villages in remote parts of Northern New Mexico, the climax of Holy Week rites of the mysterious brotherhood known as the Penitentes starts today.

In the moradas, or chapels, members of the religious organization are reciting prayers based on Gospel accounts of the arrest of Jesus. Tomorrow — Holy Thursday — processions, prayers and hymns will recall how the Lord was taken before Pontius Pilate.

On Good Friday, the fervor of the penitent ones builds to its climax as they make the Via Crucis. Praying, singing, sometimes crawling on their knees on rocky paths they will make their way past the 14 stations of the Cross to hilltop Calvaries where stand three crosses where they will commemorate Christ's agonies and death.

The rogation, on the night of Good Friday will echo with an earth-lamping sounds — pats of the symbolism in the ceremony commemorating the placing of Jesus' body in the sepulchre.

Penitente leaders, disturbed over what they called the many lurid and exaggerated accounts of the rites say physical excesses, such as severe whipping, no longer are permitted, at least not in the great majority of Penitente groups now recognized by the Catholic church as a lay sect.

They do not like to talk for publication. Neither do church leaders, who take the view the Penitentes, given church approval in 1947, should no longer be subjected to publicity. The church approved the sect in that year, with the provision that its rites be in moderation and subject to church supervision.

The Penitente order, an offshoot of the Third Order of St. Francis in Medieval Europe, was founded in New Mexico in 1835 at Santa Cruz. Its aim was year-long penance.

In the years when the priests were recalled from New Mexico, the Penitentes in some localities proved the mainstay of the church. But it was then too, that the excesses late frowned on by the authorities crept into their rites. The members then believed that blood alone could atone for their sins.

Trouble Looms Over Foreign Aid Spending

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harold E. Stassen's verbal battle with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) may be only the forerunner of future clashes with Republican senators unless he recommends large cuts in foreign aid spending.

About May 1 Stassen will lay before Congress requests for funds to operate the Mutual Security Administration, which he heads, for the year beginning July 1. Congressional leaders who talked with him and President Eisenhower at the White House Monday said plans for a reduction were discussed, but no figure was mentioned.

The impression is somewhat general among Republican senators that unless he has a change of heart, Stassen is going to recommend foreign expenditures considerably higher than they are presently inclined to approve.

This apparently is based in part on Stassen's past record, as a quadrennial candidate in the Republican presidential nomination in advocating a strong program of military and economic aid to other free nations.

If he doesn't recommend some substantial reductions, the mutual security administrator may find himself embroiled in a broad-scale battle with Republicans who see in foreign aid a budget-cutting target much more assailable than regular defense expenditures.

Stassen, who sharply criticized McCarthy for his Senate investigating committee's agreement with some Greek ship owners to halt shipments to Red China and Korea will face McCarthy across the aisle when the Senate Appropriations Committee passes on MSA funds.

Outside of the appropriations committee, Sen. Taft of Ohio, the Republican leader, has called for substantial reductions in the $7,661,000,000 foreign aid outlay proposed by former President Truman.

Taft said in an interview he doesn't believe that under any circumstances the program should be allowed to go beyond the approximately $15 billion spent in the current year.

Police Hear of Kidnaping Tale

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Mississippi Highway Patrol said a traveling salesman told them he was forced at gunpoint to drive an unlicensed stranger to Jackson, from Osceola, Ark.

The salesman reported the forced ride yesterday and identified himself as Forrest G. Smith of Memphis.

He said a man appearing to be about 35 years old and wearing dark clothes jumped into his car at Osceola and shoved a gun in his ribs.

Smith said the man took $64 from him when they drove through Memphis. The salesman said the "bearded stranger" got out of the car near Jackson.

Armistice Wouldn't End Korea Problem

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Korean armistice would not settle the Korean problem. Peace talks begin when the shooting ends. Haggle over peace terms may make the 22 months of haggling over truce terms look mild.

An armistice is not peace, even though men stop dying when the shooting stops. It's a temporary cease-fire supposedly until a final peace settlement can be worked out.

Representatives of the United Nations and the Communists agreed long ago they'd begin discussions about a permanent peace within three months after the armistice went into effect. If they could ever agree on an armistice, when an armistice begins the U. N. troops and the Chinese Communists would not suddenly turn and walk out of Korea. Each side would withdraw one mile from the fighting front, leaving a demilitarized zone of two miles between them.

And there, presumably they would stay until peace was agreed upon. Neither could clear out before then for fear the other

BLONDES DIE YOUNG

By BILL PETERS

Copyright, 1952, by Bill Peters & Co., Inc. Published by King Features Syndicate

SYNOPSIS

Bill Peters' acquaintance with Janey Nelson had been brief back there in Philadelphia, but for all that he'd fallen in love with this nice, demure Chicago night club girl. She had given him a key to her apartment, and he used that key some time. And so he'd taken her from his sleuthing job in Philadelphia and he found him now seated alone at night in Miss Nelson's abode, impatiently awaiting her return from her night club chore. Here presently he is joined by a stranger, a white-faced, smiling man who says that he too must see Miss Nelson tonight. As both men sit in silent silence, the telephone rings and Bill springs to answer its summons.

CHAPTER FOUR

THE ADDRESS Janey had given me was a walk-up in a discouraged, rooming-house neighborhood. There were a few shacks along the curving, quite a few lean, sneering cats creeping along the gutter and a general air of pinched and bitter poverty. This was a place you took yourself when you hit the sixties or seventies without kids or a pension, and rented a cheap room and waited to die. The cops would find you some morning, lying in bed, mouth open, cold and stiff; and nothing but a source of unpleasantness to the other tenants.

I stepped into a wood-paneled hallway, in which there was an old-fashioned halltree, and a dark, dust-specked reproduction of Raphael's Madonna of the Chair. A door on my right opened and a gray-haired woman with intent, suspicious eyes peered at me through a reluctant four-inch crack.

"I'm looking for a girl named Jane Nelson," I said.

"I don't bother with their names," she said. "What do I care what they call themselves? I know what they're hiding from, likely as not."

"You mustn't take too rosy a view of life," I said. "You'll learn would suddenly resume the attack. How long would that go on? It's anyone's guess.

The U. N. probably would continue training South Koreans, eventually letting them take over the forward positions. Other U. N. troops could then withdraw to supporting positions in the rear, just in case.

Both sides also agreed long ago that with the coming of an armistice neither could thereafter bring in more troops or build up its armament, although each could rotate its troops and replace beat-up equipment.

If the U. N. found the Communists cheating and building up strength for a new attack, again it's anyone's guess what the U. N. would do. It could hardly sit still. But the problems of a final peace settlement are greater than those which bogged down the armistice talks for almost two years. Here are some examples.

Should Korea be left divided into two by the 38th Parallel as it was before the North Koreans attacked the South Koreans in June, 1950?

The Chinese Communists and their North Korean allies could hardly settle for anything else. To do otherwise would be to accept at the peace conference a defeat which the U. N. hadn't been able to inflict on the battlefield.

But would the U. N. and Chinese troops have to withdraw from Korean soil, once peace was signed? The Chinese might welcome that idea. They could withdraw just across the border and be ready to pour in suddenly at any future time. Withdrawal for the U. N. would mean clearing out to Japan, at least.

If the U. N. and the Chinese withdrew, would the North Koreans and South Koreans be disarmed? If they weren't they might start war on one another again, and the whole thing would start over.

The U. S. withdrew its troops in 1949 from South Korea and the North Koreans attacked in 1950. But neither North nor South Korea is likely to agree to being disarmed. And if the U. N. withdrew from South Korea what assurances would it have that the Chinese or Russians wouldn't secretly build up the North Koreans for a new sudden attack?

Meanwhile, the United States, which has paid out so much in lives and money to protect South Korea, would hardly agree to withdraw and not rearm the South Koreans well enough to stand off a new attack until help came.

And the Chinese Communists might want some guarantees that the U. S. would not only not encourage Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa to invade China but that it would stop military help to him.

That the Chinese would raise the Formosa question seems pretty sure. There is a trick little symbol — "etc." — in the agreement the U. N. and Communist truce teams agreed on when they said peace talks would begin within three months after an armistice.

It's contained in a paragraph which says both peace teams would discuss "the peaceful settlement of the Korean question, etc."

What else the Communists might include under "etc." is limited only by their imagination.

Adenauer Leaves for U. S. Visit

BERLIN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer left by plane today for the first leg of his journey to the United States to confer with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles.

The 77-year-old chancellor told newsmen yesterday he expected these talks to strengthen U. S.-German relations and the current Moscow peace offensive. It will be the first visit of a German chancellor to the United States.

The rainfall in Cuba averages about 65 inches per year.

starting at her sprawled lifeless body, and hearing, but faintly, as if the sound came from a long way off, the furious, nauseating stroke of my heart.

She was lying on the bed, a slim honest blonde, with wide, deep blue eyes, staring sightlessly now at the unshaded bulb that hung from the ceiling.

Janey's wrists were crossed above her head and bound to the iron frame of the bed with a sheer silk stocking. There was a silk stocking about her throat, knotted so tightly that it was almost lost in folds of flesh. She had been wearing a black taffeta dress with a spray of violets pinned to the left shoulder. The skirt of the dress was drawn up to the middle of her thighs, and her legs were bare. Janey's shoes, black ankle-strap sandals, lay beside the bed, and her bag and wrap were on the chair. She had been kicking and twisting helplessly until she died. I knew that from the strained position of her body, and the agonized sprawl of her slim white legs.

I stepped back toward the door, hearing the creak of the rotten floor under my shoes and the harsh, unnatural sound of my breathing. I shouted down the stairs, shouted for the gray-haired woman of a landlady, and I then went back into that cheap and miserable room and stared down at Janey.

I began to pound my right fist into the palm of my left hand, and I heard my voice cursing in a low, raging monotone. The landlady came clattering up the steps a moment or so later, and pushed past me into the room. I was still cursing and pounding my hands together when she finally got her breath and began to scream in a high, whinnying voice.

Suspected British Slayer Refused Bail

LONDON (UP) — John R. Christie, 55, the London clerk suspected of being one of the most vicious sex killers of criminal history, was held without bail today after being arraigned on charges of strangling his wife.

Christie, so nervous he had trouble keeping his teeth from chattering, was sent to Brixton Prison for a week at the request of Scotland Yard. He was jeered by crowds that packed the street outside West London magistrate's court during the brief hearing.

He made no answer to the charges.

Christie, suspected of murdering at least six women, was found wandering unshaven and hungry in London yesterday after the greatest manhunt since the days of Jack the Ripper. He was charged last night with strangling his wife Ethel, 56.

He faces a second hearing next week.

A police official explained Christie was charged with only the murder of his wife because "you can only hang a man once."

Remains of five other bodies were found in Christie's "house of death" on Notting Hill and Scotland Yard detectives are searching for more.

At the hearing Christie wore a shabby grey suit, black shoes, horn-rimmed spectacles and was clean shaven. He kept his owl eyes averted from the courtroom and spectators.

Christie was loudly booed by onlookers as he was driven away to Brixton Prison by a police van after the hearing.

Long lines of curious Londoners — mostly women — waited for hours outside the little court building, hoping to get one of the 12 seats in the public gallery.

Scientists May Be Testing Small Weapon

By ROBERT BENNYHOFF

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP) — The light secrecy cloak current atomic tests in Nevada indicated today that American scientists may be developing the smallest and yet most potent atomic weapon possible for battlefield use.

Informal sources here said there were indications that the nuclear device set off from atop a 300-foot steel tower at Yucca Flat at dawn yesterday was a step in speeding efforts to produce a deadly "backpack-size" weapon.

However, there was much less glamor to yesterday's 5 a. m. (PST) blast than the ever-recent spring test series at the Nevada A-bomb proving grounds, 65 miles northwest of here.

Outwardly the explosion appeared much less potent than most of its predecessors. It was seen but neither felt nor heard here and residents of Elko, Nev., reported they did not see the flash.

However, the blast produced freakish results. Residents as far north as Moscow, 180, 800 miles away reported seeing the flash and fragments reports from the test site indicated the shock waves produced were the "most jarring" of the current series.

Yesterday's detonation was the second top-secret blast.

Newsmen who watched the explosion from atop Mt. Charleston, 35 miles from the test site, saw a much less brilliant flash than in previous explosion on the Nevada desert.

Yesterday's flash lasted only three seconds in comparison to previous tests during which the orange red fireball glowed furiously from seven to 10 seconds.

NOT SO

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The new police manual just off the press forbids Phoenix policemen from accepting or soliciting bribes.

Chief of Police Charles F. Thomas lastly explained the prohibition will be eliminated and the word "bribe" will be substituted for "crimes."

Red Hunters Plan With Hearings

LOS ANGELES (AP) —

Un-American Activities Committee has finished an eight-day hearing which will produce a list of 128 names over undertaken.

Ranger Jim Martin Addresses Kiwanis Club

Jim Nelson, Chairman of agricultural committee of local Kiwanis Club presented as a climax to "Keep Arkansas Green" week.

State Forestry Ranger Jim Martin from Little Rock, Mr. Martin gave statistics showing the value of our forest products to the economy of Arkansas. His remarks indicated that fire in the Southern States destroyed annually as much timber as was harvested as pulpwood. The 1953 year was the worst fire loss in many years and the burned area in Nevada was larger than any other Arkansas County. He stated that it would take a generation to recoup losses sustained in only a few days time. Ranger Martin commended the Kiwanis Club and Jim Nelson for the forest display set up downtown demonstrating growth and value of pine and hardwood in our locality.
